Course information

- English classes are usually in the morning. The six hours of Art & Design classes are timetabled for afternoons.
- The Art & Design content of the course is determined by the student, and is structured around their experience and interests.
- The studios are well-equipped for Art & Design in most fields, including digital photography (Photoshop) and most 3-D work is possible, for example in plaster, clay and a broad variety of materials.
- Includes drawing, painting, clay, textiles, sculpture, modelling, 3-D Design, fashion and jewellery.
- Students vary in their backgrounds - a recent student was hoping to do a Masters in Architecture, but many students have never done any art before and want to explore it as a hobby.
- The minimum course length is 4 x weeks; students stay 6, 8, 10 or up to 24 or 34 weeks.
- The course consists of guided and independent study, depending on the needs of the individual.
- All course materials are included in the price.

- Students can use the studio for their own work at any time when there is no class being taught (this varies from day to day, depending on the timetable and the number of classes).

The Kings art studios

At both Kings Oxford and Kings London, there is a dedicated art studio for English Plus Art and Design students to use. The Oxford studio is based at St. Josephs campus, where the majority of academic programmes are taught. The art studio at Kings London is brand new for 2014 and is located in the main teaching block. Both studios are light and spacious, and specially equipped for teaching painting, drawing and modelling. It is here where lessons with specialist art teachers will take place, and where students come to work on projects in their own time. The studios also provide a great space to meet other students after class to share and develop artistic ideas, and to learn new skills.
